S5 x shell immersion cooling fluid is a synthetic and monophasic immersion cooling fluid made of gas using gas to shell liquid technology. is optimized for immersion refrigeration solutions based on natural asperite convection, but can also be used in the pump/forced drive systems of other suppliers. "Our immersion cooling fluid can help reduce the energy consumption of the data center and reduce carbon dioxide emissions," said eduardo de azevedo, specialist in shell product applications for immersion cooling liquids. " Liquid gas technology is a sustainable alternative to immersion cooling indotria," high cooling efficiency liquid is designed to reduce energy costs and emissions through its high cooling efficiency, excellent flow behavior, as well as thermodynamic properties, and is available throughout the immersion cooling market. "Shell is our trusted partner to develop the immersion cooling fluid, a preferred partner for deployments and quality monitoring," said roelof brink, asperite stop. "With so decades of experience there is an enormous amount of value for our clients and strategic partners that we can offer together." later this month, asperitas will also announce an addition to your product portfolio with a new and larger immersion cooling solution that will make use of the full potential of your immersed computing concept, the system would offer full flexibility to oems, systems integrators and end users to facilitate thehigh density and wide server solutions OCP-ready 21". In addition to the joint launch of Shell Immersion Cooling Fluid S5 X, asperitas will show solutions related to OCP activities in the standardization of the refrigeration technology of immersion and the specific equipment specifications. The company will announce an addition to its product portfolio with a new and most large solution of immersion refrigeration that will use the full potential of its immede computerá@ concept. The system offers full flexibility to OEMS, systems and end users integrators to facilitate high density and OCP-Ready server solutions. The immersion cooling system will be delivered with an open stand of the red fish industry to allow full integration into the OCP ecosystem. Redfish has been designed to offer a simple and safe management for convergent, hybrid and software data centers. During the summit, Asperitas will show several server solutions based on the specification of open cassettes that will be introduced. The combined products of products will reinforce the large -scale implementation of this technology of immersion of cloud hyperscadars, telecommunications suppliers and other OCP adopters. About asperitas asperitas, a clean and high -technology Dutch climbing, develops and markets IMMede Computing@ a technology based on the lump immersion cooling to allow data centers to function in a sustainable way, even for users and environments. demanding. In 2018, Asperitas won the New Energy Challenge International Contest organized by Shell, Rockstart and YesDelt, and in the same year it was named.
